Harvesting Rain

Plants love chlorine-free rainwater. You can give plants a healthy advantage and save on your water bill if you install a rain barrel to keep your plants watered. Barrels are available at most home-improvement stores and are easy to add to your downspouts. Always use a cover on your barrel to keep the mosquito population well under control.

Garden Center News

The Garden Center walls are decorated with a new selection of wall art, pictures, prints and decorative frames. We also feature wind chimes, wild birding supplies; (wooden bird houses, feeders, seed and accessories). New Hope Greenhouses is the best place to get Smoky Mountain Jams, Chow Chow and local honey!

Container Gardening

Plants in containers dry out quickly and need to be watered regularly. They do not have the benefit of absorbing moisture from the ground to sustain them during dry periods. Using a specially formulated potting soil designed to retain moisture will help with under-watering or over-watering. Deadheading blooms and late-summer fertilizing will extend the life of these potted plants.

August Green TIP Shrubs grow much faster with heavy amounts of rainfall. The New Hope Landscaping crew can prune your out-of-control shrubs and cleanup the beds. Estimates are free!
